LOCK HAVEN UNIVERSITY PA ELECTED DIRECTOR at Large for National Physician Assistant Organization

Walter A. Eisenhauer, PA-C, M.M.S.c., program director at the Lock Haven University of Pennsylvania Physician Assistant (PA) Program has been elected director at large of the Association of Physician Assistant Programs (APAP). Eisenhauer was elected by APAP's 131 member ~~programs at its annual Education~~ Forum held November 6-10, 2002. He took office on November 11.

Eisenhauer is an associate professor and the department chair of the PA program at Lock Haven University. He graduated from the MCP Hahnemann University PA Program in 1984, and went on to complete a PA surgical residency program at the Norwalk Hospital/Yale School of Medicine. He received his master's of medical science degree from Saint Francis College in Loretto, Pennsylvania, in 1977. Most recently, he earned a postgraduate certificate in on-line teaching and learning from California State University in Hayward, California. He has been an active member of APAP's Education Committee since 1999.

In addition to his work at the Lock Haven University, Eisenhauer worked as a physician assistant at Clinton Medical Associates since 1999. Active in the Pennsylvania Society of Physician Assistants (PSPA), he served on the PSPA Board of Directors as a director at large from 1998 to 2001.
