Two LHU freshmen receive Army ROTC Scholarships

Two Lock Haven University freshmen have been awarded Army ROTC scholarships.

Curtis Schneider of Lewisburg, Pa., and Jeofferey Traore of Forest Hill, Md. earned the scholarships through the Army High School scholarship process last spring based on their high school performance. To activate their scholarships, they had to become members of the Lock Haven University Army ROTC Battalion and pass the Army Physical Fitness Test.

Cadet Schneider is a 2011 graduate of Lewisburg Area High School. He is the son of Dana and Kelly Schneider.

Cadet Traore is a 2011 graduate of Bel Air High School. He is the son of Gilbert Traore and Geralda Rhama.

LTC Joseph R. Loren explained that the Army awards the 4-year scholarship to high school students who have excelled in scholarship, athletics and leadership. He added, "Cadet Schneider and Cadet Traore are outstanding young Americans who have great potential to be future leaders of the United States Army and the nation."
