SUMMER SCHOOL POLICY – 2015
GENERAL INFORMATION

1. Summer school will be divided into two modules of five-weeks. Each module will have a three-week session at the beginning. There will also be a ten-week session beginning on the first day of the first summer session and ending on the last day of the second summer session.

2. The first five-week module will run from Monday, May 18 to Friday, June 19; the first three-week module will run from Monday, May 18 to Friday, June 5; and the second five-week module will run from Monday, June 22 to Friday, July 24; the second three-week module will run from Monday, June 22 to Friday, July 10. The summer extended session (10-week) will run from May 18 to July 24. (No classes will be held on Monday, May 25 and on Friday, July 3.)

3. Daily class periods are 8:30-10:30; 10:40-12:40; 12:50-2:50; 3:00-5:00 Monday-Thursday (no Friday); and 8:30-11:55 or 12:50-4:15 daily Monday-Thursday (no Friday) (3-week session courses only).

4. Multiple sections of a given course offered by the same instructor through distance education will be open one section at a time. When the first section reaches its cap, the next section may be opened, and so on.

5. Pre registration enrollment figures will be the determining factor for contract purposes and May 1, 2015 (12 noon) is the deadline for the decision on issuance of summer contracts.

6. Student pre registration begins approximately February 1 and may be accomplished via myHaven.

7. Students may enroll in both five-week and three-week sessions provided the sections selected are not in conflict.

8. Students are limited to 7.0 semester hours in each session.

9. Three credit courses that meet for fewer than five weeks require a minimum 2250 minutes of in-class instruction (lab and workshop courses require more).

10. Unassigned sections must be assigned by April 24.

11. Faculty members will be compensated in the same manner as has been the past practice unless modified by subsequent CBA agreement. Individual compensation will be indicated on summer employment contract.

12. If a faculty member does not meet the class the first and second day of the session, the contract will be null and void, unless for pre-approved reasons or sickness. The absence, regardless of length, must be pre-approved (unless the absence is for sickness) and qualify for personal, educational or sick leave. Class coverage must be approved by management and in accordance with the CBA. Compensation for sick leave coverage shall be in accordance with the CBA. The definition of “meet” for online courses is defined as logging into the course and providing instruction to the students.

FIRM CONTRACTS

Undergraduate Sections
The minimum pre registration enrollment will be seventeen students by 12 noon May 1, 2015 for a firm contract. Chairs of departments of sections not achieving the minimum number will be contacted by voice or e-mail that same day.

Graduate Sections
The minimum pre registration enrollment will be eleven students by 12 noon May 1, 2015 for a firm contract. Chairs of departments of sections not achieving the minimum number will be contacted by voice or e-mail that same day.

According to the CBA, Article 24, summer contracts must be returned by May 15.

CONTINGENCY CONTRACTS

Undergraduate Courses
Sections with enrollments that do not meet the minimum for a firm contract at 12 noon on May 1, 2015 will be issued a contingency contract.
The contingency contract will become a firm contract for all of those sections such that the integer part of the average number of students certified by the registrar as being officially enrolled in the summer session is seventeen per section by noon on Wednesday, May 13, 2015 for summer session 1 and summer extended session or Monday, June 15, 2015 for summer session 2.

No course will be offered if enrollment is fewer than ten (10) students, regardless of where it falls within the average.

If the average number falls in the middle of a range (i.e. there are 5 courses; some of the 5 courses fall within the 17 average and some of the 5 courses don’t), all courses will be cancelled if less than half of the courses have the 17 average. All courses will be offered if at least half of the courses have the 17 average.

Summer session 1 and summer extended session sections that do not meet this criteria by Wednesday, May 13, 2015 will be canceled and registered students will be notified. Summer session 2 sections that do not meet this criteria by Monday, June 15, 2015 will be canceled and registered students will be notified.

If a course is scheduled that starts earlier than the standard summer session begin date and receives a contingency contract, the enrollment for that course will be reviewed the Wednesday prior to the course’s begin date.

Graduate Courses
Sections with enrollments that do not meet the minimum for a firm contract at 12 noon on May 1, 2015 will be issued a contingency contract.

The contingency contract will become a firm contract for all of those sections such that the integer part of the average number of students certified by the registrar as being officially enrolled in the summer session is eleven per section by noon on Wednesday, May 13, 2015 for summer session 1 and summer extended session or Monday, June 15, 2015 for summer session 2.

No course will be offered if enrollment is fewer than six (6) students, regardless of where it falls within the average.

If the average number falls in the middle of a range (i.e. there are 5 courses; some of the 5 courses fall within the 11 average and some of the 5 courses don’t), all courses will be cancelled if less than half of the courses have the 11 average. All courses will be offered if at least half of the courses have the 11 average.

Summer session 1 and summer extended session sections that do not meet this criteria by Wednesday, May 13, 2015 will be canceled and registered students will be notified. Summer session 2 sections that do not meet this criteria by Monday, June 15, 2015 will be canceled and registered students will be notified.

If a course is scheduled that starts earlier than the standard summer session begin date and receives a contingency contract, the enrollment for that course will be reviewed the Wednesday prior to the course’s begin date.

*For classes that start before the regular session start dates, enrollments will be reviewed the Wednesday of the week prior to that course’s start date. Enrollment must meet the minimum enrollments as stated for all courses in the Summer School Policy.
